

Overview of the situation in formal collective centers in Serbia

March 2013.

Throughout the years the Commissariat for Refugees and Migration of the Republic of Serbia is implementing programmes for sustainable solutions and has been investing great efforts to provide durable solutions and local integration of refugees and internally displaced persons.

The Commissariat implements programmes for the establishment of durable solutions in cooperation with numerous EU and international agencies and organizations, governments of individual states and local self-governments.

With the implementation of the planned closure of Collective Centres, their number is rapidly decreasing. In 1996 there were approximately 700 Collective Centres. In January 2002, in the territory of the Republic of Serbia there were 388 Collective Centres. As of March 13, 2013, in the territory of the Republic of Serbia there is 30 Collective Centres. 19 of these 30 Collective Centres are in the Republic of Serbia excluding Kosovo and Metohija and 11 Collective Centres are within the territory of Kosovo and Metohija.

In order to better coordinate the implementation of projects financed by international aid funds (EU, UNHCR and other donors) for the closure of collective centers, a meeting with all the organizations that implement projects has been held in Commissariat for Refugees and Migration premises on 21st February 2013.

This report was prepared based on information gathered from the field by the Commissariat for Refugees and Migration staff, through the contacts with beneficiaries located in collective centers and data gathered by implementing partners (UNHCR, ASB, Danish Refugee Council, Help and IOM). Report includes only collective centers where there is possibility to finance projects aimed at closing them down from international sources. Commissariat for Refugees and Migration doesn't have access to international funds through which it would be able to finance such projects on the territory of Kosovo and Metohija.
